DETAILED ACTION

Receipt is acknowledged of the amendment filed 08/03/2010.

The rejections of record are withdrawn as per the telephonic interview of 07/30/2010.

The reference of the prior action has now been identified and is included in this office action. The document could not be identified until it was published since a serial number was not recorded for the application. This examiner apologizes for the error in making such an omission.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422

F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-13 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-10 of U.S. Patent No. 7,763, 277 (US'277). Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because US'277 claims a porous silicon impregnated with a beneficial substance (See claim 1). The depth of the beneficial substance is between .035 and 1000 μm (see claims 7 and 8). Further, the concentration of beneficial substance is between 1 and 90% (claim 9). The material silicon is mesoporous (see claims 1-2), with a porosity of between 2% and 80%. Claim 10 incorporates a platinum compound. As such, those of ordinary skill would have expected similar therapeutic results from the use of the claimed composite given the claims of US'277. The instant claims would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention given the claims of US'277.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US'277 (cited above)

The applied reference has a common inventors with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

US'277 claims a mesoporous silicon with a beneficial substance embedded in it (see claim 1). The depth of the beneficial agent and amounts are clearly anticipated by these claims. The solubility of the beneficial substance is inherent to the substance being delivered. Since the claims set out the same concentration of bioactive, as well as the same depth for the pores, the distribution of the bioactive appears to be identical. The claims are clearly anticipated by US'277.
